Aula čtvrt

Jeskyně Spižírna

(Industrial)

A small shelter near the Aula covers a stone stairway leading down into an enormous subterranean cavern that glitters with countless small quartz crystals embedded into the ceiling and walls of mystically fused rock.

Two large granary towers of seamless conjured basalt occupy the center of the cavern, each forty feet in diameter and around thirty-five feet high, reaching nearly to the roof of the cavern; each granary can hold around 35,000 bushels of grain (@ ~60 loaves of bread per bushel, that equates to more than two million loaves of bread, or about three years of food for 1,000 people); stairways ascend around the exterior of each tower, allowing access to the roofs.

The cavern is protected by an enchantment (Structura Conservationis) that preserves Herbam, Animal, and Aquam substances within the cavern.

Structura Conservationis

slim gold ring, one foot in diameter, which is inlaid into a flat face in the ceiling of the storage cavern

Kuchyň (Kitchen)

(Industrial)

The communal kitchen for the Aula is a large L-shaped wooden building with a tile roof, three large hearths, and several work tables; a small fountain brings fresh water from the Náměstí through an underground aqueduct

Casa Merceris (VACANT)	Aurelii (Arcane)
The Residence of Mercere is a large three story wooden residence with a tiled roof, connecting to the Aula through a covered vestibule to the former laboratory of Auspicius Bonisagi and via a short bridge to the balcony of the Aula. A stone fireplace flue ascends on each side of the residence, and balconies extend from the upper floors on the side opposite the Aula. The gable roof extends over the balconies on that side, with a hipped roof over the balconies. The ground floor boasts a grand entranceway with stairs ascending to the upper floors. Each of the double doors is marked with a Sanctum marker and the symbol of Domus Merceris. Storage rooms for the laboratory connect via a short covered vestibule to the laboratory within the Aula. The first floor above ground hosts a small common area opening onto the balcony, ancilla quarters (including space for small children), and two private rooms for custodes or discipuli. From the quarters, a door connects via a short bridge to the balcony of the Aula on the same level. The walkway and the door are both marked with a Sanctum marker and the symbol of Domus Merceris. The top floor, accessible by stairs from the common area of the second floor, is entirely devoted to grand quarters for Aurelius and his wife Ramune, including a garderobe, small dining area, and an immense four poster bed. This chamber is decorated with tapestries from Italy and cloth drapings of fine embroidered linen.

An elevated wharf next to the wall, with a crane and moorings for the Aethranavis; a small warehouse sits on the ground beside the wharf

Aethranavis

This slightly modified Baltic cog is 57 feet long, 18 feet wide, and can carry up to 80 tons of cargo (8000 cubic feet). There is a low covered cabin under the stern deck, but otherwise the ship is open to the elements above the cargo decking. Counting the cabin, only about half of the cargo space is covered. Much of the cargo would be lashed down on the main deck.

It was constructed by Marcus Navicularius Verditii at Oculus Septentrionalis, with later enhancements by Lucas Faber Jerbitoniss; the enchantments were made by the magi of Porta Germania, and assembled by Lucas and others via a Mystery Ritual

The stairway leads to two tunnels at the bottom: one opens into a hemispherical subterranean cellar (Východní Sklepeni) that glitters with countless small quartz crystals embedded into the ceiling and walls of mystically fused rock; the floor is segmented into a series of interrupted circles, with shallow channels marking out a web-like pattern in the rock; a solid ring of stone runs around the base of the cellar, requiring one to step over it when entering the cellar. The tunnel on the left leads under the Náměstí to the west and opens into a second, nearly identical, hemispherical cellar (Západní Sklepeni).
